When Business Deals Go Wrong, Businesses Call Shanahan Law Group

SHANAHAN LAW GROUP (SLG) UNDERSTANDS THAT WHEN a business deal goes bad, clients need lawyers that are as tough as they are smart. SLG is a problem-solving, tough-as-nails law firm that brings a strategic, hardball approach to business litigation.

Led by former federal prosecutor Kieran J. Shanahan, this boutique law firm concentrates on complex and other business disputes. "Understanding a client's business is essential to helping the client through the maze of today's litigation—especially in North Carolina's relatively new business court," says Shanahan. SLG handles high-stakes business matters with the qualities most important in today's business environment: tenacity, experience, expertise and credibility.

CUSTOMIZED SERVICE The SLG lawyers strive to understand the nuances of the client's business, and from there devise a comprehensive game plan to accomplish the client's goals. With small-firm agility, the attorneys swiftly execute the plan without stopping until the client achieves the desired result. Whether handling a multimillion-dollar class action lawsuit or a complicated business contract dispute, SLG's lawyers are adept at securing successful outcomes—and they are never outworked.

Kieran Shanahan is an experienced litigator with extensive trial court experience throughout the country. The firm handles a wide variety of business-to-business disputes as well as employment, construction, administrative, regulatory and white collar defense matters.

AWARDS AND HONORS The firm's business-to-business litigation has garnered statewide recognition and numerous accolades. The Triangle Business Journal recognized Shanahan Law Group as a "Best Place to Work." The firm recently received the Pinnacle Business Award from the Greater Raleigh Chamber of Commerce. It is the only law firm to be named in North Carolina Lawyers Weekly's top 10 largest reported verdicts and settlements in the state for the past three years.
